Why train your own behaviour support trainer?

Consistency that outlasts staff turnover

Your trainer can induct new joiners every August, so all staff share the same language and responses, whatever their background or curriculum.

Prevention first

Around 95% of the training focuses on understanding behaviour, prevention and de-escalation. Physical intervention is only ever a last resort.

Nearly 30 years of expertise, now across the Gulf

Founded in the UK in 1997 and used by over 10,000 settings worldwide, including schools in Doha and an Abu Dhabi Centre of Excellence delivering in Arabic and English.

Cost-effective across your school

Train every teacher and teaching assistant in-house, at times that suit your school calendar, without bringing in external trainers each year.

Which course is right for you?

Both courses qualify you to train your own staff. The right one depends on the level of support your students need.

3
days

Tue 1 to Thu 3 Dec

£1,575
per person
approx. QAR 7,875

Foundation Trainer Plus

Best for mainstream schools that want every member of staff confident in prevention, de-escalation and keeping students and staff safe.

What you will learn

How to support students whose behaviour interrupts learning or affects others when they feel dysregulated.

Low-level skills to keep everyone safe, such as prompting, guiding and disengagements.

What you can deliver

Our Level One (6-hour) course to your staff, including all theory and safety responses.

Your trainer licence is valid for 12 months and renewed with a 1-day annual reaccreditation.

5
days

Tue 1 to Thu 3 Dec
Sun 6 to Mon 7 Dec

£2,100
per person
approx. QAR 10,500

Intermediate Trainer

Best for schools supporting students with more complex needs, where staff may occasionally need to hold a student safely as a last resort.

What you will learn

Everything in Foundation Trainer Plus, plus an accredited framework of physical intervention skills.

This includes prompting and guiding, a wider range of disengagements, one and two-person holding skills (with a small child module) and separating fights.

What you can deliver

Our Level One (6-hour) and Level Two (12-hour) behaviour support courses to your staff.

Your trainer licence is valid for 12 months and renewed with a 2-day annual reaccreditation.

Tuesday 1 to Thursday 3, then Sunday 6 and Monday 7 December
